STATEMENT OF FACTS

THERE IS AN INFRINGING DEVICE OR PRODUCT ON THE MARKET OR METHOD IN USE

There is an infringing device or product on the market or method in use. We first compare the claimed invention to the prior art, to show how the prior art limits the scope of the pending claims. We then present evidence showing the existence of the accused product and method. We then make a rigid comparison of certain of the pending claims to the accused method.

The Closest Prior Art of Record

The invention relates to a method to lose weight. The prior art discloses many weight-loss products and methods. These include, for example, stimulants. The art teaches stimulants which 5 are chemically-synthesized (e.g., amphetamine), as well as those naturally occurring in plants (e.g., caffeine, ephedrine).

The prior art also discloses the existence of the plant Hoodia gordonii. The prior art discloses that the Hoodia gordonii cactus has been used temporarily stave off hunger and thirst. The prior art also teaches that such use appears to cause a long-term increase in body mass. See 10 VAN HEERDEN et al., U.S. Letters Patent No. 6,376,657 (tests sap and other extracts of Hoodia gordonii).

VAN HEERDEN teaches that administering Hoodia sap to laboratory rats increases basal food intake. The effect of a methanol extract of trichocaulon piliferum on rats' rate of food intake is shown in VAN HEERDEN at Figure 2. Figure 2 shows rats' basal rate of food intake (shown at 15 days 3-5) remains roughly constant at 17 grams per day; after administering sap from the cactus (at day 5), however, the rats' rate of food intake decreases quite sharply for two days, and then rises to a rate of about 20 grams per day, a rate greater than the original basal rate.

The net effect of this change in eating rate is shown in Figures 5 and 6. Figure 5 compares the body mass of control rats and rats fed various amounts of Hoodia sap. Net change in body 20 mass over the two week study period is shown in Figure 5; the control rats (Group 5 and 9) experienced moderate or significant net decreases in body mass, losing 18.91% and 3.51% of body mass, respectively. (This could be because the rats lacked adequate sleep or physical activity during the fourteen day test, or disliked the food they were given, etc...).

In contrast, rats fed hoodia sap (Groups 1, 2, 3, and 4) lost significantly less body mass than control Group 5. That is, they retained more body mass during the two week period. Curiously, the lowest dose (Group 1) and the higher doses (Groups 3 and 4) each had less effect than an intermediate dose (Group 2). Thus, while all groups showed less weight loss than control Group 5, VAN HEERDEN teaches that the weight-retention effect may be potentially dose-dependent, or simply due to random error.

The Pending Patent Claims.

In contrast to the teachings of the prior art, the inventor has found a way to make Hoodia gordonii useful for weight loss. The immediate claims are drawn to this method, and to various compositions of matter useful in practicing this method. Claims 1 and 2, for example, are drawn to a weight loss method:

1. A method of body weight reduction, comprising administering a body weight reducing amount of hoodia gordonii at least once every about 48 hours, for at least about 45 days.
2. The method of claim 1, said hoodia gordonii administered at least three times every 24 hours.

In addition, the Inventor has developed a number of Hoodia gordonii product formulations. The claims thus also cover some of these formulations:

19. A composition of matter for body weight reduction, comprising a body weight reducing amount of hoodia gordonii together with a second compound selected from the group consisting of a stimulant and glucosamine, said second compound administered in an amount sufficient to lessen the amount of hoodia gordonii required for body weight reduction.

23. The composition of claim 19, comprising from about 5 to about 200 milligrams of hoodia gordonii, from about 50 to about 200 micrograms of chromium, from about 10 to about 50 micrograms of vanadium, 0 to about 400 milligrams of glucomannan, from about 25 to about 200 milligrams of sodium carboxymethylcellulose, 0 to about 15 milligrams of citrus naringinine, 0 to about 200 milligrams of glucosamine, 0 to about 500 milligrams of cocoa PEA standardized extract, and 0 to about 250 milligrams of green tea extract.

5 The immediate application thus recites claims drawn both to a method of weight loss and various compositions of matter suitable to practice this method.

The immediate claims have been drafted to avoid the prior art. The claims do not cover weight loss in general, because other methods of weight loss are known in the prior art. The claims do not cover Hoodia gordonii per se, as the plant is known in the prior art, see 35 U.S.C.
10 102, and is naturally-occurring, see 35 U.S.C. 101. Rather, the claims are limited to a particular use of the Hoodia gordonii plant - its use for weight loss.

There is An Infringing Product on the Market

The Assignee of the immediate application is TrimSpa Corporation, the maker of the 15 TrimSpa® line of dietary supplement products. TrimSpa Corporation has achieved an enviable level of consumer recognition in the weight loss industry, so much so that a number of competitors have begun to sell what can be described as slavish copies of the claimed invention, down to even copying (with inconsequential changes) the claimed product's trade name.

We now make a rigid comparison between the pending claims and these unauthorized 20 copies.

A RIGID COMPARISON OF THE ALLEGED INFRINGEMENT DEVICE, PRODUCT OR METHOD WITH THE APPLICATION CLAIMS HAS BEEN MADE, AND
SOME OF THE CLAIMS ARE UNQUESTIONABLY INFRINGEMENTED.

Applicant is the manufacturer of TrimSpa® dietary supplement products. Applicant has made a rigid comparison of the alleged infringing method with the pending application claims. Some of the claims are unquestionably infringed. We address products sold by a number of manufacturers, each of which is believed to clearly infringe at least one pending claim.

TrimSmart Diet & Energy Formula

TrimSmart Diet & Energy Formula (see attached Exhibit) is a slavish copy of Applicant's TrimSpa product (see attached Exhibit). In fact, the maker of TrimSmart boasts that this product is a direct copy of the claimed invention. A television commercial for the accused product says,:

We've all heard of the hottest new diet supplement in America called TrimSpa. TrimSpa is the new rage with celebrities and athletes across America and we think it's a great product. Only problem is, if you're like me, you really don't want to spend a fortune on a diet product every month. Now there's TrimSmart, a smarter way to get the same results for less than half the price. Look at the label – they both have the same great ingredients, like Hoodia cactus extract, vanadium, glucomannan citruc narangin, cocoa extract; and TrimSmart has more than twice the amount of green tea ECGC.

See Trim Smart Commercial (5 Oct. 2004) (copy attached). This advertising confirms (indeed, it boasts!) that the accused product is a direct, willful copy of the claimed invention.

The accused product's labeling confirms that the accused product is a direct copy of the claimed invention. I attach as an exhibit a copy of the package label for TrimSmart Diet & Energy Formula. The accused product labeling copies that of the patented product, even copying Applicant's packaging design and TrimSpa trademark.

19. A composition of matter for body weight reduction, comprising a body weight reducing amount of hoodia gordonii together with a second compound selected from the group consisting of a stimulant and glucosamine, said second compound administered in an amount sufficient to lessen the amount of hoodia gordonii required for body weight reduction.

0 to about 500 milligrams of cocoa PEA standardized extract	325 milligrams of cocoa PEA standardized extract
0 to about 250 milligrams of green tea extract	510 milligrams of green tea extract

Note that the claim requires 0 to about 250 milligrams of green tea extract. The accused product includes 250 milligrams of green tea extract, together with additional green tea extract. Inclusion of additional green tea extract does not avoid infringement, because the claim covers a composition “comprising” 250 milligrams of green tea extract. The claim term “comprising” means that the claim includes a product with the specific material specifically recited in the claim, together with anything else, including, for example, additional green tea extract. See, e.g., Moleculon Research Corp. v. CBS, Inc., 793 F.2d 1261 (Fed. Cir., 1986).

Infringement is confirmed by the actual contents of the accused product. TrimSpa Corporation (the Applicant) obtained samples of the accused product and had these samples evaluated by an independent analytical testing laboratory, Bio-Botanica Inc. The results of this independent testing confirms that the accused product in fact contains the claimed amounts of green tea extract, cocoa extract, glucosamine, and Hoodia gordonii. This is shown by Youssef MIRHOM, Ph.D., Analytical Report on Trim Smart (11.08.04) (copy attached).

TrimSmart Natural Appetite Supressant, Glucomannan-Free Formula

I attach as an exhibit a copy of the package label for TrimSmart Natural Appetite Supressant, Glucomannan-Free Formula. This product also is a slavish copy of Applicant's product, even copying Applicant's packaging design and trademark.

5 The accused product literally has each and every element of claim 23. This is shown by comparing each element of claim 23 to the ingredients shown on the accused product labeling:

Claim limitation	Accused product – per caplet
5 to 200 milligrams of hoodia gordonii	7.5 mg of hoodia gordonii
50 to 200 micrograms of chromium	75 micrograms of chromium
10 to about 50 micrograms of vanadium	15 micrograms of vanadium
0 to about 400 milligrams of glucomannan	0 milligrams of glucomannan
25 to 200 mg of sodium carboxymethylcellulose	50 mg of sodium carboxymethylcellulose
0 to about 15 milligrams of citrus naringinine	5 milligrams of citrus naringin [sic]
0 to about 200 milligrams of glucosamine	0 milligrams of glucosamine
0 to about 500 milligrams of cocoa PEA standardized extract	200 milligrams of cocoa PEA standardized extract
0 to about 250 milligrams of green tea extract	37.5 milligrams of green tea extract

10 Note that the accused product has each and every claim limitation literally; thus the accused product infringes claim 23 literally.

TrimClub

15 TrimClub Ephedra free formula is a slavish copy of Applicant's TrimSpa® product. In fact, the maker of TrimClub boasts, "Trim Spa TrimSpa vs Trim Club ... Compare Formulations ...  Compare to TRIM SPA®." See TrimClub eBay sale description (5 Oct. 2004) (copy enclosed). This advertising confirms (indeed, it boasts!) that the accused product is a direct, willful copy of the claimed invention.

The accused product's ingredient labeling confirms that the accused product is a direct copy of the claimed invention. The accused product labeling copies that of the patented product, even copying Applicant's packaging design and TrimSpa trademark.

The accused product literally has each and every claim element for a number of pending claims. This can be shown by comparing each element the ingredients shown on the accused product labeling, see id. at Product Highlights, to the pending claims. For example, pending claim 23 reads:

19. A composition of matter for body weight reduction, comprising a body weight reducing amount of hoodia gordonii together with a second compound selected from the group consisting of a stimulant and glucosamine, said second compound administered in an amount sufficient to lessen the amount of hoodia gordonii required for body weight reduction.

* * *

23. The composition of claim 19, comprising from about 5 to about 200 milligrams of hoodia gordonii, from about 50 to about 200 micrograms of chromium, from about 10 to about 50 micrograms of vanadium, 0 to about 400 milligrams of glucomannan, from about 25 to about 200 milligrams of sodium carboxymethylcellulose, 0 to about 15 milligrams of citrus naringinine, 0 to about 200 milligrams of glucosamine, 0 to about 500 milligrams of cocoa PEA standardized extract, and 0 to about 250 milligrams of green tea extract.

In contrast, the accused product copies literally each and every claim element in pending claim 23. This can be is shown in the following claim chart, which compares each element of claim 23 to each of the ingredients shown on the accused product labeling.

Claim limitation	Accused product advertisement
5 to 200 milligrams of hoodia gordonii	150 mg of hoodia gordonii
50 to 200 micrograms of chromium	150 micrograms of chromium

10 to about 50 micrograms of vanadium	30 micrograms of vanadium
0 to about 400 milligrams of glucomannan	400 milligrams of glucomannan
25 to 200 mg of sodium carboxymethylcellulose	100 mg of sodium carboxymethylcellulose
0 to about 15 milligrams of citrus naringinine	10 milligrams of citrus naringin [sic]
0 to about 200 milligrams of glucosamine	100 milligrams of glucosamine
0 to about 500 milligrams of cocoa PEA standardized extract	325 milligrams of cocoa PEA standardized extract
0 to about 250 milligrams of green tea extract	250 milligrams of green tea extract

Thus, this product literally infringes at least claim 23.

The HG Pharma HoodiaSpa line of Products.

A variety of products is offered for sale by a company doing business as H G Pharma. These accused products are sold under the trade name "HoodiaSpa," a trademark deceptively similar to Applicant's TrimSpa® trademark. The accused infringer offers for sale at least three different products: "HoodiaSpa 1500," "HoodiaSpa 24," and "HoodiaSpa Extreme." I attach a printout of the hoodiaspa.com website (23 March 2005).

This website provides evidence of infringement. Each of these accused products literally infringes at least one pending application claim. We thus discuss each product separately.

HoodiaSpa Extreme Infringes Claim 19

HoodiaSpa Extreme literally has each and every claim element for, inter alia, pending claim 19. This can be shown by comparing certain of the pending claims to the accused product's promotional information. For example, pending claim 19 reads:

19. A composition of matter for body weight reduction, comprising a body weight reducing amount of hoodia gordonii together with a second compound selected from the group consisting of a stimulant and glucosamine, said second compound administered in an amount sufficient to lessen the amount of hoodia gordonii required for body weight reduction.

In contrast, HoodiaSpa Extreme copies each and every claim element in pending claim 19. This can be shown in the following claim chart, which compares each element of claim 19 to the accused product's promotional literature, available at www.hoodiaspa.com/extreme.html (23 March 2005) (copy attached)..

Claim limitation	HoodiaSpa Extreme advertisement
a body weight reducing	"Suppresses appetite! Start losing weight" "Dynamic weight loss agent"
amount of hoodia gordonii	"Hoodia Gordonii Powder" Helps control the desire to eat by signaling the hypothalamus"
together with	"incorporating these following 11 ingredients"
a second compound selected from the group consisting of a stimulant and glucosamine	The accused product contains a number of stimulants, including caffeine (anhydrous), green tea extract, Guarana extract, and Yohimbe extract.
said second compound administered in an amount sufficient to lessen the amount of hoodia gordonii required for body weight reduction	"By incorporating these following 11 ingredients in Hoodiaspa Extreme it becomes dynamic weight loss agent."

HoodiaSpa Extreme thus has each limitation of claim 19. Thus, HoodiaSpa Extreme literally infringes claim 19.

HoodiaSpa 1500 Literally infringes Claim 1

Claim 1 is drawn not to a product, but to a weight loss method:

1. A method of body weight reduction, comprising administering a body weight reducing amount of hoodia gordonii at least once every about 48 hours, for at least about 45 days.

HoodiaSpa 1500 is not a “method,” but a product. It is, however, recommended for use in practicing the claimed method.

Claim limitation	HoodiaSpa 1500 advertisement administering ... hoodia gordonii	“1000 MG PURE HOODIA per tablet” [n.b. : why is a product which has only 1000 mg of Hoodia advertised as “HoodiaSpa 1500?”]
a body weight reducing amount	“effective / safe weight loss”; “Lose Excess Weight” at least once every about 48 hours	“Take 1 to 2 capsules in the morning, or early afternoon”
for at least about 45 days	One bottle has 120 capsules; at the recommended dose of 1 or 2 capsules per day, each bottle provides between 60 and 120 days of use.

HoodaSpa 1500 directly infringes claim 1 because taking the accused product per the recommended use replicates the claimed method. HoodiaSpa 1500 also induces the user to infringe claim 1, by recommending use of HoodiaSpa 1500 to practice the claimed method.

HoodiaSpa 24-SRT Infringes Claim 2

Claim 2 requires a specific dosage :

2. The method of claim 1, said hoodia gordonii administered at least three times every 24 hours.

HoodiaSpa-24 SRT infringes this claim because it uses the claimed pattern of dosage.

Claim limitation	HoodiaSpa-24 SRT advertisement administering ... hoodia gordonii	"our product contains 100% Pure Certified Hoodia Gordonii Powder from South Africa"
a body weight reducing amount	"effective / safe weight loss"
at least once every about 48 hours	"Take one (1) Sustained Release tablet in the morning, one (1) Sustained Release tablet in the early afternoon, and one (1) Sustained Release tablet in the evening." [n.b.: the manufacturer recommends taking the ostensibly sustained-release tablets more frequently than the normal tablets]
for at least about 45 days	Sold in units of three bottles a "3-month Supply."
said hoodia gordonii administered at least three times every 24 hours	"Take one (1) Sustained Release tablet in the morning, one (1) Sustained Release tablet in the early afternoon, and one (1) Sustained Release tablet in the evening."

HoodaSpa 1500 directly infringes claim 1 because taking the accused product per the recommended use replicates the claimed method. HoodiaSpa 1500 also induces the user to infringe claim 1, by recommending use of HoodiaSpa 1500 to practice the claimed method. For example, the advertisement quotes a user testimonial of "Julie K., Clearwater FL," who advises, "I have used Hoodia-24 SRT now for three weeks and the weight is coming off."

Analytical Report on Trim Smart

Lot. # 0106H4 Exp. 08/07

1) Green Tea Extract 510 mg/2 Tab.

The potency of the extract is unspecified, we will assume that it is standardized to 40% polyphenols and about 30% Caffeine.

Results: a) Polyphenols = 180 mg/2 Tab.

These would be derived from $(180 \times 100)/40 = 450$ mg Green Tea (40%) and not 510 mg.

b) Caffeine = 133 mg/2 Tab.

These would be derived from $(133 \times 100)/30 = 443$ mg Green Tea and not 510 mg.

This confirms that 2 Tabs. Contain only 450 mg Green Tea PE with 40% PolyPhenols and about 30% Caffeine.

c) EGCG concentration is quite good that is 72.04 mg/2 Tab.

2) Cocoa Extract 325 mg/2 Tab.

with 10% Theobromine

In other words, Theobromine 32.5 mg/2 Tab.

Results: 37 mg/2 Tab.

That is $(37 \times 100)/32.5 = 113.8$ mg % or 13.8 % extra was added.

3) Glucosamine is not mentioned on the Label,

Let us consider Glucose Polymer: 100 mg/2 Tab. to be nothing but Glucosamine

Results: Glucosamine = 67.22 mg/2 Tab.

i.e., much less than expected and probably glucose polymer would be nothing but Glucosamine or they have to explain what it is if it is not Glucosamine.

4) Hoodia 150 mg/2 Tab.

Result: 157.00 mg/2 Tab.

HOW DOES HOODIA WORK?

HOODIA works by suppressing your appetite by signaling a part of your brain called the Hypothalamus (see pic below), it even stops you from thinking about food, thereby reducing your caloric intake. HOW does it do this? The newly discovered P57 molecule in Hoodia Gordonii is estimated to be up to 100,000 times as potent as glucose in sending a signal to the brain that the body is in a state of satiety, or in common terms: not hungry. In clinical trials on obese subjects it has been proven to reduce caloric intake by as much as 40%!

The Hypothalamus:
This is Where P57 Does the Work

What Does The Hypothalamus Really Do?

Very simply, the Hypothalamus organizes and controls many complex emotions, feelings and moods, as well as all motivational states including hunger, appetite and food intake, and everything to do with the concept of pleasure including satisfaction, comfort and creative activities. The neurons in the Hypothalamus produce a number of Hypothalamic neurotransmitters which relay information and instruction to all parts of the body, directly influencing the Pituitary Gland, where Growth Hormone, Thyroid Hormone Releasing Factor and other neuropeptides are released via Hypothalamic Input. The Hypothalamus (with the Cerebral Hemispheres) is intimately involved in the integration of all physiological stimulation, all 5 senses, including taste, smell, sight, sound, and touch, which it then translates, distills and assembles into one discernible "package," relating all the attributes of an experience, all the associated stimulation into one clear harmonious concept, one memory, one experience. Thus, yielding a succinct emotionally satisfying understanding and judgment of the experience itself. Thus, the Hypothalamus not only governs the motivation to eat, stimulating hunger and appetite, but most importantly how eating is to be experienced and reflected upon, whether it is satisfying or not, and how deep the satisfaction occurs. This gives us an idea as to just how important healthy Hypothalamic function really is!

What Happens When The Hypothalamus Doesn't Work Properly?

When the Hypothalamus is not working correctly, when it's not functioning up to par, the wrong neuro-signals are generated and the wrong neuro-messages are received, resulting in an inaccurate integration of all our sensory input, leading to faulty perceptions which are very subtle but nonetheless powerful, making us feel empty, deprived and emotionally "unsatisfied." Most simply, when the Hypothalamus is "broken," food becomes increasingly more important, but increasingly more unfulfilling. We end up never feeling satisfied with the foods which we have eaten, gradually eating more and more to try to compensate for whatever is lacking! Unfortunately, Hypothalamic function becomes impaired with age, so as we grow older and the Hypothalamus is not functioning correctly, weight gain becomes inevitable and frustratingly impossible to control for 9 out of 10 Americans. Now, with HOODIA, the natural nutritional support of Hypothalamic function is encouraged and directed by the body. The end result is truly remarkable - a "new" body for you... forever!

Expect to see a loss of "Inches" before a loss of "Pounds." That's because, by volume, "fat" weighs less than "muscle." Muscle tone will naturally improve, becoming more dense, burning the "lighter" stored fat. This is proof-positive of real, safe, long-term weight loss! Change of diet and exercise, of course, should help to accelerate weight loss and toning.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Q: I own a retail store and would like to buy products from you for resale. Can you send me a wholesale price list?

A: Yes, to purchase wholesale please email me directly hoodiaspa@yahoo.com (Subject line: Wholesale Inquiry) and provide contact information and a phone number.

Q: What is HOODIA?

A: A type of cactus. Hoodia Gordonii is a succulent in the family Asclepiadaceae. It forms multi-stemmed clumps 45cm (18in) high and bears unpleasant-smelling, pale purple disc-shaped flowers 7.5-10cm (3-4in) in diameter. Hoodia Gordonii grows in semi-arid areas of South Africa. The San people, formerly known as bushmen, of the Kalahari eat the bitter-tasting plant on long hunting expeditions.

Q: Is HOODIA a Drug?

A: No. HOODIA is an all natural dietary supplement and contains NO Caffeine or Ephedra. Consult your health professional before using.

Q: Are there any side effects?

A: There are no known side effects. But for the first couple of days you may experience a "jittery" or "nervous" feeling (this is normal). That's because this product contains natural thermogenics. After a couple of days this feeling should go away and leave you with a natural energy feeling. Consult your health professional before using.

Q: When will I first notice results?

A: Most customers notice a difference somewhere between 3-6 weeks into the process. Remember that your loss of body fat may not show up as a change in scale weights if you are gaining lean mass. So you may first notice a reduction in inches, followed by a loss in pounds. Be patient, because no two bodies are the same, so some people will see results sooner or later than others.

Q: Do I have to exercise to lose the weight?

A: This formulation helps you lose weight even if you do not exercise.

Q: How much is shipping and handling?

A: $3.95 DOMESTIC AND INTERNATIONAL
